CLUB DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

FITEQ launched a ground-breaking Club Development Programme in May 2020 to provide future and existing teqers with the tools to reach their full potential in the sport. In the six months that have followed, FITEQ's club network has grown to over 1,400 clubs across all five continents, despite the restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic thereby validating FITEQ's position as a safe socially distanced sport based on inclusion, accessibility, and equity. The programme was created with a long-term view in mind, and is divided into two-strands, grassroots and professional, both of which have been developed, and are being implemented, in close collaboration with FITEQ's 87 National Federations.

Reflecting on the success of the programmes so far, and looking ahead to what is in store for the future, FITEQ General Secretary Marius Vizer Jr said:

"It is our role at FITEQ to ensure our existing National Federations, as well as all future federations, are equipped to grow the sport in their country, especially during the hard times we have been through this year. Our Club Development Programme is ensuring clubs all around the world have access to Teq tables and critical educational resources. Clubs are the lifeblood of the growth of our sport and FITEQ's major investment in them is recognition of their key role in teqball's bright future."

BACKGROUND

The Grassroots Development Programme is designed to give more people around the world the opportunity to play teqball, in the knowledge that a thriving grassroots scene is a pre-requisite for all successful sports whereas the Professional Development Programme is available to existing, high-performing clubs, with the aim of supporting the development of elite players.
