Battersea Chapel Baptist Church

Modernising a historic Chapel to connect a local community

I would certainly recommend Community Fibre, based on both the speed and the stability of the connection. We have lots of community activities outside of the Church, so it's fantastic that we can now look to connect with them, and run online youth sessions.

The client

Founded in 1672, Battersea Chapel has long been entwined with the spirit of the local area, not least due to its considerable history in the education of its surrounding community. In an increasingly remote, digital world, the Chapel wanted to continue its important work in the area, connecting and educating the local community. For that, they needed a fast and reliable connection from a provider that they could trust.

The challenge

Battersea Chapel is all about connecting the local community. So, why would that not extend to the digital community too? With today's youth engaging primarily in online sources of information, it was vital that Battersea Chapel found a way to modernise, to ensure it could continue to educate and serve the community online in a way, without being held back by slow speeds, unreliable connection and poor customer service.

The solution

Historic shouldn't mean disconnected. That's why Community Fibre installed their HYPERFAST 400 Mbps full fibre connection in the Chapel, opening up huge opportunities to all those who work, pray and congregate there. Battersea Chapel is now able to livestream church services throughout the week, while providing access to scriptures online during youth sessions. They are now looking forward to expanding connections within local activities, while remaining a historic and long-standing site.
