Where is the fish oil sourced from?

We harvest our fish oil from small ocean fish, including sardine and anchovy, from the pristine ocean upwelling region off the west coast of South America. Using these small fish – as opposed to blubber or large breeds – greatly reduces the risk of the presence of mercury, dioxins and other contaminants. The fisheries we source from are among the world's most tightly regulated, ensuring that our Omega-Q is the product of healthy, fully sustainable fisheries and a renewable resource.
